

Candidate Success Story

Ellie Loasby

Situation

When Ellie came to Success Recruit, she was ready to take the next step in her career and move into an Executive Assistant role. Despite having the right attitude and transferable skills, she kept hitting a wall. Applications were being rejected because her previous job titles didn't perfectly align with EA experience, even though she clearly had the potential to succeed.

Opportunity

Vicki took the time to really understand Ellie's background, strengths, and ambitions. By focusing on her potential rather than just her CV, Vicki was able to present Ellie confidently to clients who trust her judgment and know she always looks beyond job titles to find the right person. That trust opened the door for Ellie to be seen for the capable and committed person she is.

THE RESULT

Elle secured an opportunity that not only recognised her transferable skills but also set her on the career path she had been striving for. Her story is a perfect example of how partnership, belief, and understanding between recruiter, client, and candidate can change the outcome completely.

Testimonial:

"I recently had the pleasure of working with Vicki and I can confidently say she was exceptional from start to finish. She is approachable, honest, and highly engaging, making the entire recruitment process feel both smooth and personal. I applied for a role that marked a shift from my previous experience but aligned closely with the career path I wanted to pursue. Vicki took the time to understand my background and saw the potential in my transferable skills, rather than focusing solely on job titles. Despite the possibility that the employer might overlook my application due to my non-traditional experience, Vicki strongly advocated on my behalf, ensuring I had the opportunity to interview. Her tenacity, professionalism, and consistent communication made a significant difference, and I am incredibly grateful for her support. I would highly recommend Vicki to anyone seeking a dedicated and insightful recruiter." Ellie
